East Against the West At Lincoln Thanksgiving.
By Associated Press

The biggest game of Thanksgiving Day in point of an exhibition of football will be that of Nebraska and Syracuse at Lincoln. It will be a conflict of teams representing the East and the West and will be a test of the Eastern style against the Western methods. The Eastern eleven has been showing real form in its games along the Atlantic coast, while, barring the Michigan defeat, the Nebraska team has been running at a high rate of speed since the beginning of the season. It is hard to predict which team will go into the game the favorite.

The hardest fought battle will be that of Missouri and Kansas at Columbia. The Missourians and their followers seem to be satisfied that they have had a successful season if they win from the Kansas and in recent years they have acquired the habit. On the basis of past performances, Kansas is easily given the game, but the Missourians insist that the time to pass judgment is after the last whistle has blown. They have experienced one of their poorest seasons in several years, but when the Kansas game is at stake the Missourians have the faculty of coming from behind.

Schulte, the Missouri coach, has been saving up his men and doctoring his cripples, and sympathizers of the eleven declare that substitutes were deliberately sent into the Nebraska game in order that the better men might be saved to meet Kansas. The Lawrence school is going into the contest with expectations of coming out with the long end of the tally and have everything needed to back up their expectations.

Ames will go to Des Moines to play the Drake eleven, but the game will be hardly worth the watching if the Aggie team is in as fine fettle after its game with Iowa as it has been during the last two or three weeks. The Drake school has had a pitiful experience in the circuit this season and its defeat by Washington took away the last hope of a conference victory and relegated it to the last place in the averages. The little college team has been trying to pull itself back into shape, but the turn of circumstances has been too much for it.

Washington will stage the last game of its season next Saturday with St. Louis University. The Washington eleven will experience some difficulty in defeating St. Louis, although the latter eleven is not exceptionally strong.

The Kansas Aggie game with the Emporia Normal school ended their season. Ames will play the University of Iowa eleven Saturday before the Aggies' game with Drake. If the "Big Ten" representatives from Iowa City are not in better form than they have been during the season, it probably will be an easy game for the Aggies.

Games Scheduled For Next Saturday.

Schulte Wants Old Players Back to Encourage Team.
A number of letters have been mailed to former Missouri players urging them to come back as soon as possible to let the 1917 Tigers know that the "Old Guard" will all be here to pull for a Missouri victory. Coach Schulte feels that the presence of these old players on the sidelines will inspire his men and make them fight harder against Kansas.

LEE WALKER TALKS ON WAR
Need of Money, Men, Ships and Food Told in Four-Minute Speech.

Lee Walker gave four-minute talks at the Columbia Theater and the Hall Theater last night on the progress of the United States in war preparations. He said that the United States had set an example to the world by passing a conscription law which registered 10,000,000; that the navy was seven times as strong as it was during the Spanish-American War; that 1,500,000 men were now in the training camps of the United States.

He pointed out the national need of money, men, ships and food and predicted that America would fail in none of these.

Mr. Walker spoke of the new ideals of democracy and freedom which the entrance of the United States into the war had brought. The war, he said, had brought to this country the realization that these ideals must be made the common property of the world.

Round Trip Rate of $4.50 Is Planned for Live Stock Show.

More than one hundred and fifty University students expect to attend the International Livestock Show in Chicago December 1 to 3. Prof. E. A. Trowbridge is trying to arrange a special rate for the students of $4.50 for the round-trip from Centralia. He has not yet received positive assurance of getting it.

"Other University students are welcome to go along," he said today. "We are trying to make this as educational as possible, and may visit different points of interest such as the packing houses."

The students will leave at 4:20 o'clock December 1, and return on Tuesday, December 4. Prof. E. H. Hughes will be in charge. The men figure on staying at the Y. M. C. A. while in Chicago, and it is estimated that the visit will not cost more than $15.

Three cars of live stock, one and one-half cars of hogs, one-half car of sheep, and one car of cattle will be shipped November 28. No horses will be taken. Discretion, champion over the Illinois state champion at Sedalia, Dispatch, champion grade Shorthorn steer at Sedalia, and Choice Dale, champion shorthorn steer at Sedalia, are among the animals which are expected to win in the cattle classes.

"We expect to get something or we wouldn't take the animals," Professor Trowbridge says. "It all depends on the competition as to what we get. And there are more animals entered this year than ever in the history of the International."

The total of the University herds amounts to ten steers, seventy-five hogs and twenty sheep.

On the stock judging team going are Maurice Witt, J. H. Longwell, Ira Drymon, Russell Knotts, O. E. McConnell, and C. R. Howell. The dairy judging team includes J. C. Haynes, Paul Griffith, F. H. Dennis, O. E. Goetz, Harvey Harmon, J. H. Wilbur, O. G. Schaefer, R. C. Maupin and M. J. Regan.

'COLLEGE WIDOW' SCENERY HERE
Preparation of Play for Benefit of Drafted Men Moves Briskly.

Columbia people will have a chance next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings to aid the drafted men from Columbia at Camp Funston by attending "The College Widow," to be given at the Hall Theater by home talent. The cast has been practicing for the last six weeks.

Special scenery arrived today and was placed this afternoon. According to the business manager, the comedy has a genuine college town atmosphere. Incidentally, there is a shirt tail parade, something to which a Columbia audience can bring an appraising eye.

This play was presented last summer at the Hall Theater. Some who were in the cast at that time will be seen again. The advance seat sale indicates that the house will be sold out both nights. Tickets are on sale at the theater box office.
